

I present this email and the attachment hereto for inclusion in the handout of materials for the Supreme Court of Iowa regarding the Blue Ribbon Committee's recommendation of a diploma privilege for certain graduates of in-state law schools.

In response to my email below to the ISBA, I have been informed as follows:

1. The Blue Ribbon Committee kept no minutes of any meetings or proceedings; and
2. The only meetings of the Board of Governors or its committees discussing this initiative are attached. These include two meetings of the Board of Governors, and two meetings of the Administrative Committee. My summary of the relevant excerpts of those minutes is as follows:
 - a. In the minutes of the Board of Governors meeting dated June 20, 2013, there is a short notation that "Guy Cook told the governors he is asking the deans of the law schools to be on an ad hoc committee to look at the Wisconsin model whereby students who meet certain curriculum requirements will not have to take the bar exam." This was not an action item. The next item in the minutes was a discussion by Dean Agrawal of cost-savings measures at the UI law school such as the creation of a 3 and 3 program, having law professors teach undergraduate classes, and allowing law students to take online courses. Significantly, this committee was originally presented as one told to consider the Wisconsin model, rather than as one with a broader mission. Nor was it presented as a "blue ribbon" panel at that time.
 - b. The minutes of the "Administrative Committee meeting – August 2, 2012" provide in relevant part as follows: "President Cook explained that as a result of recent criticism of the Basic Skills Course the ISBA needs not only review the course content, but any possible changes to the licensure procedure in Iowa. Guy asked for permission to create a Blue Ribbon Committee on Education and Licensure for the purpose of identifying possible changes in how attorneys are licensed in Iowa; including but not limited to diploma privileges. A motion was made, seconded and approved unanimously to support the creation of such a task force." Thus, it appears that the membership of this committee was not appointed by the Board of Governors as a whole nor even by the Administrative Committee, but by one man, and that this one man gave the committee its charge. It appears that the members of this committee were chosen exclusively by Mr. Cook after this meeting, and that he advised them of their scope and mission. Notably, it appears that no member of Iowa's judicially-appointed commission of bar examiners was included on that ad hoc committee. These Administrative Committee minutes mark the first time "Blue Ribbon" is used as a name for the committee.
 - c. The minutes of the Administrative Committee meeting – October 11, 2013, provide as follows in relevant part: David Brown reported that the first meeting of the task force is scheduled for October 14th at the bar office. The meeting conducted with no agenda and open discussion in an effort to allow free thinking on the issue. David indicated that the task force will attempt to have a recommendation by the first of the year." There is no additional discussion, and this is the last meeting of the Administrative Committee whose minutes reflect any such discussion.

d. Finally, the minutes of the Board of Governors meeting dated December 2013 reflect that David Brown, as chair of “the Blue Ribbon Committee on Legal Education and Licensure” (the first time that title is used) presented the committee’s recommendation, and that it was unanimously approved, and that bar leadership was authorized to present the report to the Supreme Court of Iowa.

I am led to understand that these are the only minutes that exist with respect to this initiative and its consideration by the Bar Association, its committees, or its leadership prior to its submission to the Supreme Court of Iowa.

Respectfully Submitted,

Paul P. Morf

CERTIFICATION

I hereby state that I am the President of the Association and that the foregoing is true and accurate copy of the resolution passed by the Association at its Board of Governors meeting on June 20, 2013.

Criminal Law Section

Steve Drahozal, Chair of Criminal Law, informed the board that the Criminal Law Section had addressed several of the concerns the board expressed in Janaury regarding their proposed legislation on the electronic recording of custodial interrogations. Mr. Drahozal reported that the section has worked on this legislation for more than five years and has collaborated with all other stakeholders and believes the proposed legislation is fair to both the prosecution and the defense.

After additional questions and further clarification a motion was made and seconded to include the ELECTRONIC RECORDATION OF CUSTODIAL INTERROGATIONS ACT on the ISBA's affirmative agenda for 2014.

Motion passed without dissent.

At the request of legislative counsel, Section 16. Limitation of Liability was referred to the Litigation Section for comment prior to next year's legislative session.

Real Estate and Title Law Section

Frank Feilmeyer presented several modified and new Title Standards to the board for consideration and approval.

Mr. Feilmeyer reported that the Probate, Trust and Estate Planning Section did have some concerns with proposed title standard 7.8, so both sections assigned sub-committees to work together to draft language that was workable for both sections. After several meetings and modifications, both sections approved the proposed standard.

Title Standard 6.1 (Modified)

When property has been acquired by a judicial foreclosure of a mortgage, trust deed or installment purchase contract, what showing is needed?

Title Standard 7.7 (New)

What is necessary to clear title to real property encumbered by a mortgage when an individual mortgagee is deceased?

Title Standard 7.8 (New)

What showing is needed where a mortgage granted by a now deceased borrower is foreclosed in rem?

The Real Estate and Title Law Section worked with the Probate, Trust and Estate Planning Section to develop the proposed title standard 7.8 addressing the proper abstract showings for clearing title to property where the mortgagor or the mortgagee are deceased. After several modifications both sections approved the proposed standard.

A motion was made, seconded and approved by unanimous vote to approve the proposed Title Standards for publication.

RESOLUTION HONORING, Cynthia C. Moser

WHEREAS, Cynthia C. Moser of Sioux City, Iowa, has served with distinction as President of The Iowa State Bar Association for the year 2012-2013, and

WHEREAS, she faced numerous challenges related to the state's judicial system and this Association, and

WHEREAS, her dedication, attention to detail, calm level-headed leadership style and extraordinary talent as a speaker and writer enabled her to chart a course through sometimes controversial issues to meet those challenges, and

WHEREAS, her first concern when addressing controversial issues was always the impact it would have on members on both sides of the issues and her unwavering resolve to keep all members advised of the Association's decisions and actions, and

WHEREAS: she was frequently required to step into new and challenging arenas during the months leading up to the 2012 general election to speak in support of retaining Iowa's 74 judges and justices and Iowa's merit system of selecting judges, which resulted in all 74 judges and justices being retained, and

WHEREAS, she tirelessly advocated for full funding of Iowa's courts with the governor, legislators and members of the association, which resulted in the courts receiving the full appropriation requested, now

THEREFORE, we, the Board of Governors of The Iowa State Bar Association, hereby thank and commend Cynthia C. Moser on this 20th day of June 2013 for her representation of the lawyers of the State of Iowa in a most distinguished manner as the 126th President of this great Association.

Informational Reports

Discussion with Chief Justice Mark Cady

Chief Justice Mark Cady began his remarks by thanking the bar association for all of its assistance of the past year.

Chief Justice Cady told the governors that 2013 is the first year that anyone can remember that the judicial branch received funding for the full amount requested. The number one priority for that funding will be to open all clerks' offices on a full-time basis and to provide the resources judges need including additional Court Reporters and increase clerks in the clerks office.

Saying that his goal is for Iowa to have the best court system in the world, he outlined for the governors some of the initiatives the court is undertaking to achieve that status. Among those are:

- Revised standards for representing juveniles in the state
- Changes in interpreter's rules and how non-English-speaking individuals can have better access to justice
- A dual track for litigation allowing reduced discovery requirements for some cases — probably those involving less than $100,000.
- Making changes to court forms so they can be filled out, saved and filed online without being printed out. Iowa courts will be the first in the nation to have a totally paperless court system, he said.

Chief Justice Cady said that the court plans to continue its practice of holding oral arguments around the state. At present, two are scheduled for this fall and two for next spring, plus one each at Drake University and the University of Iowa.

President's Report, Guy Cook

President Cook addressed the board and outlined his goals for the coming year. "We soldiered hard for the courts during the retention election last fall. Other than the effort to purchase and remodel the bar headquarters building, I can't think of anything in my professional life that was as important," he said.

Guy wants to focus on those lawyers "who come after us. We might have the opportunity. We certainly have the responsibility," he told the governors.

Guy also wishes to build upon the credibility gained during the retention election and raise the bar's profile. He plans to work with the media as much as possible to get the bar's message out to the public.

LawPAC and legislative issues will be another area of focus for Mr. Cook.

He told the governors he is asking the deans of the law schools to be on an ad hoc committee to look at the Wisconsin model whereby students who meet certain curriculum requirements will not have to take the bar exam.

He challenged the governors to think about the committee or section they'd like to work with as a liaison. His goal is to have a BOG member liaison for each of the ISBA's committees and sections.

Dean Agrawal, University of Iowa Law School

Dean Gail Agrawal from the University of Iowa College of Law told the governors that the schools continues to admit smaller classes and has created a 3 + 3 program in an effort to reduce the cost to attend law school. Law college faculty are also teaching several undergraduate law classes. The first online law class was held this summer and they plan to hold additional online classes in partnership with The Ohio State University.

Dean Vestal, Drake Law School

Dean Allan Vestal from Drake University Law School updated the governors on activities at the school including the hiring of a new director of the Transactional Law Center. It also has received a license to conduct student trips to Cuba.

Construction at the law school is progressing with plans to be completed by student orientation on Aug. 19.

The Iowa Constitutional Law Series has been named after Judge James Grant. He was the founding president of the ISBA, serving from 1874-1876.

YLD President's Report

Ian Russell, newly elected president of the Young Lawyers Division, outlined steps he wants to see the YLD take to increase participation by young lawyers. The YLD plans to broaden its base by establishing and maintaining regular contacts with students in their last year of law school. He also said that every new admittee will receive a letter and a phone call, with a promise to return phone calls in cases where the connection isn't made the first time.

Iowa State Bar Foundation Report

Bill Scherle, new president of the bar foundation, outlined activities of the foundation. Included were the results of an analysis of the foundation's investments and the impact on future grant making capabilities by Bernstein Global Wealth Management, the foundation's investment advisor.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 3:38 p.m.

Administrative Committee
Minutes of Meeting
August 2, 2013

The Administrative Committee of The Iowa State Bar Association met by conference call on August 2, 2013. The meeting was called to order at 9:00 a.m. by ISBA President Guy Cook. Also participating in the conference call were Joe Feller, Bruce Walker, Cindy Moser, Tim Semelroth, Ian Russell, Eric Turner, David Brown, Dwight Dinkla and Harry Shipley.

Administrative Committee Minutes

The minutes of the meeting of the Administrative Committee held June 12, 2013 were approved as previously disseminated.

Blue Ribbon Committee on Education and Licensure

President Cook explained that as a result of recent criticism of the Basic Skills Course the ISBA needs not only review the course content, but any possible changes to the licensure procedure in Iowa. Guy asked for permission to create a Blue Ribbon Committee on Education and Licensure for the purpose of identifying possible changes in how attorneys are licensed in Iowa; including but not limited to diploma privileges. A motion was made, seconded and approved unanimously to support the creation of such a task force.

Deferred Compensation Plan

Dwight Dinkla reminded the committee that the board authorized a deferred compensation plan for both the Executive and Assistant Executive Director in the amount of 5% annually in 2008. The original plan documents were shared and the committee was asked to reaffirm the annual contribution. A motion was made, seconded and carried unanimously to authorize a contribution in the amount of 5% of salary for all employees qualifying for the deferred compensation plan for 2012-2013.

Title Insurance Litigation

Dwight Dinkla reported that Bar Association Member Walt Conlon has filed a motion for Reconsideration regarding a case filed in Mills County, Iowa. If the Court does not grant the Motion to Reconsider, Walt believes the ISBA might possibly be interested in filing an Appeal due to the subject matter which is Title Insurance. After some discussion it was the consensus of the committee that this should be referred to the Real Estate and Title Law Section for review and comment.

State Public Defender

Guy Cook provided a brief report regarding the State Public Defender's assertion that a few attorneys abused the billing process and the possible negative press these assertions could have on the legal community. Guy reported that he would invite Sam Langholz to attend the September board meeting to provide an update on their findings.

Access to Justice

Bruce Walker provided the committee with a summary of activities of the Access to Justice Committee (ATJ) since the June board meeting. Bruce indicated that the committee was drafting answers to the various questions and concerns raised by the board at its June meeting for distribution.

The Administrative Committee also reviewed a report from Brett Toresdahl and the ISBA Public Service Project (PSP) that requested support for a pro bono initiative to help reduce the unmet pro bono needs in the state. This program would focus on placing existing pro bono cases with attorneys throughout the state via an electronic campaign much like the program organized in 2011 around pro bono month.

After some discussion it was determined that both the ATJ and PSP reports should be further studied and discussed at the September 6 Administrative Committee Meeting.

Board of Governor Liaison Program

President Cook reported that he wishes to revive the BOG liaison program and will begin soliciting BOG member input as to which section or committee they would like to work with. It is believed that these liaisons will help the board better understand the activities of the various committees and sections. Guy also reported that he has identified several tasks for each section and committee to consider for the upcoming year.

Annual Meeting Update

Harry Shipley reported that ISBA staff in conjunction with the chairs of the Annual Meeting Committee have begun planning activities to increase participation at the 2014 Annual Meeting. The goal is to move the 2014 Annual Meeting to the Iowa Events Center and combine several other events. The following are events the committee would like held in conjunction with Annual Meeting.

- YLD Quarterly Meeting
- Basic Skills Course
- ISBA Annual Tech Show
- Probate Section Quarterly Meeting

Information Items

1. Criminal Law forms being identified for the purpose of inclusion in IowaDocs.
2. Law School Symposium in South Dakota and ability to secure funding from the South Dakota legislators for assistance in placing attorneys in rural areas of the state. Iowa should send representatives from Rural Practice Committee to participate and possibly model.
3. Master Lawyers Section – JC believes there is a purpose for the committee/section but needs new members to replace original members since the purpose has changed.

There being no further business brought before the committee, President Cook adjourned the meeting at 10:06 a.m.

Administrative Committee
Minutes of Meeting
October 11, 2013

The Administrative Committee of The Iowa State Bar Association met by conference call on October 11, 2013. The meeting was called to order at 1:30 p.m. by ISBA President Guy Cook. Also participating in the conference call were Joe Feller, Bruce Walker, Ian Russell, Eric Turner, David Brown, Dwight Dinkla and Harry Shipley.

Approval of Reimbursement Claims for ABA Delegates

Dwight Dinkla informed the members of the committee that the ISBA office recently received ABA travel reimbursement claims in excess of the $2,000 previously authorized. Mr. Dinkla informed the committee that all expenses appeared to be appropriate and the overage is simply due to the high cost of the meeting location in San Francisco. After a little discussion a motion was made, seconded and approved unanimously to authorize bar staff to pay the requests for reimbursement of expenses as submitted by ABA delegates for the San Francisco Meeting.

2012-2013 Audit Report and Tax returns

Eric Turner reported to the committee that the ISBA office just recently received the draft copies of the 2012-2013 Audit report and 990 Tax returns. He reported that the Ways and Means Committee would be meeting soon to review the draft copies and would report back to the Administrative Committee and the Board in December. The draft copies were distributed to members of the committee.

Website Update

Guy Cook and Harry Shipley informed the committee that the new ISBA website launched on October 7th and the transition has proceeded with few concerns. Even though all members have been required to change usernames and passwords, access of the site has been high for the first several days. The new site is more user friendly for both the public and members and includes a great deal of new functionality. In the coming week's articles and videos will be made to help membership navigate through the site and utilize these new services.

Blue Ribbon Committee on Education and Licensure

David Brown reported that the first meeting of the task force is scheduled for October 14th at the bar office. The meeting conducted with no agenda and open discussion in an effort to allow free thinking on the issue. David indicated that the task force will attempt to have a recommendation by the first of the year.

Informational Items

- District 5B Update – Guy reported that he along with Dwight Dinkla and Harry Shipley attended this meeting and approximately 35 members were present including several judges. Guy and Judge Gamble provided brief remarks to all attendees related to bar and court activities.
- Old 18th Judicial District Meeting – Dwight Dinkla and Joe Feller attended along with approximately 40 other members.
- ILAP Two Year Budget – Dwight Dinkla reported that the Iowa Lawyer's Assistance Program would be converting to a two year budget process and that it would have little to no impact on the ISBA because requested contribution of the ISBA was not being increased. This budgeting changing was made to allow for better planning.

- Upcoming events
 - Great Rivers Bar Conference October 30-November 1. Dwight Dinkla, Guy Cook and Joe Feller will be attending to participate in discussion amongst the eight Midwest bar associations who make up the Great Rivers Bar Conference. have
 - Rural Practice Symposium, University of South Dakota March 20-21, 2014 – Phil Garland was authorized to attend and speak about the activities of the ISBA on the Rural Practice initiative.

There being no further business brought before the committee, President Cook adjourned the meeting at 2:25 p.m.

(a) Minutes from September 13, 2013 Board of Governors Meetings

These minutes are available as part of the permanent record of the ISBA and may be viewed at ISBA Headquarters.

Action Items

Member Benefits – Sharefile

Harry Shipley and Nick Critelli provided the board with a brief explanation of Fileshare by Citrix and how it allows the transmittal and storage of information in the cloud securely. Fileshare’s security and Audit trail capabilities ensures that attorneys can store confidential files in the cloud and give access to the appropriate files to clients without jeopardizing the security of those files as required under Rule 1.7 of the Iowa Rules of Professional Conduct. ISBA has preliminarily negotiated a 15% discount for members and royalties to the association.

After some discussion, a motion was made to authorize ISBA staff to negotiate the best possible terms and enter into an agreement with Citrix to include Fileshare in the ISBA stable of benefits.

Motion carried without dissent.

Access to Justice Report

Bruce Walker addressed the board regarding the activities and recommendations of the Access to Justice Committee. Bruce presented the committee's final report for the board’s consideration and indicated that report no longer pursues a licensure fee for all attorneys. The report does, however recommend:

- The Supreme Court implements a pro hac vice fee of $250 per case. Most states charge a fee to out-of-state lawyers who request permission to appear in the state’s courts. Iowa does not have such a fee.
- The report also asks the ISBA to support a state appropriation for civil legal assistance, and to support an increase in the appropriation to the Legal Services for Persons in Poverty Grants Program. This program provides legal assistance to low-income Iowans by Iowa Legal Aid and HELP Legal Assistance.

A motion was made, seconded and approved unanimously to accept the report as revised and provide a copy to the Iowa Supreme Court.

Bar Insurance Committee- Lockton Affinity Contract Extension

Bar Insurance Chairman, Phil Brooks reported to the board his committee was recommending the ISBA sign an extension with Lockton Affinity to allow them to remain the bar endorsed Professional Liability Insurance broker. He reported he negotiated a royalty of 1% of written premium with a floor of $22,500; which is $2,500 than the prior contract.

One member in attendance questioned the royalty percentage, indicating his experience has been that most affinity agreements pay a much higher royalty percentage. Mr. Brooks agreed that in a typical royalty agreement the royalty is 8-10%, however, in the insurance industry 1 % of premiums is standard.

A motion to allow ISBA staff to enter into an extension with Lockton under these terms was made, seconded and approved unanimously.

Member Mark Program

ISBA staff presented bar leadership with the concept of using a modified version of the bar logo that members may use when marketing themselves to identify themselves as members of The Iowa State Bar Association. A sample “Member Mark” of the ISBA logo with the words “PROUD IOWA LAWYER” underneath was presented to the board for consideration.

The program would allow active ISBA members to use, reproduce, copy and distribute the licensed trademark on materials such as business cards, letterhead, envelopes, signage on the office/building, and websites. A sample licensure agreement was also provided indicating when and how the “Member Mark” can be used. It is envisioned that the program would strengthen the ties among participating members and the bar.

After some discussion, a motion was made, seconded and passed unanimously to offer a “Member Mark” program for members and firms.

Blue Ribbon Committee

David Brown, chair of the Blue Ribbon Committee on Legal Education and Licensure reported the activities of the committee as and thanked his dedicated committee members for their participation. David summarized the committee’s report and outlined its four specific recommendations. These recommendations are:

1. Create an alternative for admission absent examination for qualified graduates of Iowa law schools.
2. Extend the comprehensive character and fitness screening for applicants admitted absent examination.
3. Adopt the Uniform Bar Exam for admission upon examination.
4. Revise the Iowa Basic Skills course

Many members of the board and the audience had several questions of the chairman and his committee members in attendance related to these proposed changes and how they will affect the practice. After an ample discussion and answer period, the discussion was brought to a close.

A motion was made, seconded and approved by unanimous vote to support the committee’s recommendations and accept the report in its entirety. It was also moved and approved to authorize bar leadership to present the report to the Iowa Supreme Court.

Iowa State Bar Foundation

Bill Scherle, President of the Iowa State Bar Foundation provided brief remarks related to the activities of the Foundation. However, the majority of Bill’s discussion was focused on addressing the concerns brought forth by former Foundation director Bruce Graves in his letter circulated to the board. Bill indicated that in response to Bruce’s letter he appointed a committee of Steve Roy, Frank Carroll and Gary Streit to review the letter and provided recommendations for the Foundation to consider.

In summary the committee reported that the Iowa State Bar Foundation modify its status as a supporting organization and change to a public foundation. The change from a supporting foundation to a public foundation will allow the foundation to provide two types of grants. Grants to the ISBA and grants to other nonprofit organization. As the foundation is constructed today it is a supporting organization, so all grants awarded should be to support the ISBA. My Scherle reported that foundation director Paul Tyler has been appointed to review the bylaws and provide recommended changes to be presented to the ISBA Board of Governors for consideration in the future.

President Scherle also reported that due to Bruce Graves’ resignation the foundation has a position to fill. Gary Streit if Cedar Rapids was nominated to full fill the open seat. A motion was made and approved to appoint Mr. Streit to the Iowa State Bar Foundation Board.

Legislation

Criminal Law Section

Chairman Steve Drahazal reported to the board that in light of recent decisions by both the U.S. and Iowa Supreme Courts, his section recommends removing HF 555, the joint ISBA-Iowa County Attorneys Association legislative proposal from the ISBA Affirmative Legislative Program until the issue can be studied further.

HF 555 contains a mandatory 45 year prison sentence before a juvenile convicted of first degree murder could be eligible for parole. The section recommends supporting the bill if the mandatory minimum sentence is reduced to 35 years, but believes this should be delayed until a working group of stakeholders can discuss a comprehensive review of juvenile sentencing in the wake of the recent U.S. and Iowa Supreme Court Opinions.

A motion was made and approved to remove HF 555 from the ISBA Affirmative Legislative Agenda.

Business Law Section

Bill Boyd was present to explain the legislative requests of the Commercial Law Section of the ISBA. The Business Law Section is requesting the following two changes to the Iowa Business Corporation Act:

- Amend Code Sections 490.730 and 490.732 to remove the 10-year limits on the agreements in the above proposal. The amendments are based on the American Bar Association, amendments to the Model Business Corporation Act.
- Add a new division entitled “Social Purpose Corporations” to Chapter 490. The new division authorizes corporations to opt into a legal structure that expressly expands the purpose of the corporation to allow its directors to include environmental, societal or other impacts of corporate activity in its articles of incorporation.

The change to the articles of incorporation requires approval by 90 percent of the outstanding shares of the corporation.

A motion was made, seconded and approved by unanimous vote to include the Commercial Law Section’s legislative proposals as part of the ISBA Affirmative Legislative Agenda.

Real Estate and Title Law Section

Frank Feilmeyer and Jim Nervig appeared for the Real Estate and Title Law Section to discuss the section’s four legislative recommendations.

- Perpetuities in condos and coops - The perpetuities in condos and coops provision clarifies that the terms, conditions, covenants, and provisions of the documents creating and regulating a multiple housing cooperative or horizontal property regime (condominium) shall continue and remain in full force and effect for so long as the coop or condominium exists, unless amended or terminated as provided in the governing document or Code Chapters 499A or 499B.
- Stale uses and reversions - The stale uses and reversions provision defines various sets of uses that are not barred by Iowa Code Section 614.24 after 21 years, and that are not subject to renewal by verified claim.
- Mineral rights - The mineral rights provision provides a mechanism to validate active claims of interests in mineral rights in real estate, while allowing dormant claims, for which renewed claims have not been recorded, to expire. Provides the owner of the remaining real estate with a means to clear title from the encumbrance of dormant mineral rights. Affirms the statutory requirement to subject the separate interest in minerals to taxation and establishes a procedure for filing a verified claim to maintain an interest in minerals. Provides that if a verified claim is not timely recorded, the person claiming the mineral rights interest is barred from asserting the claim in any court against the holder of record title in possession of the real estate.
- Joint tenancies - The joint tenancies provision adds language to Code Section 557.15 which (a) creates a presumption in favor of a “joint tenancy with a right of survivorship” if a conveyance is made to two or more persons married or where the terms “joint tenants” or “their survivor” are used in the conveyance instrument; and (b) creates a presumption of severance of the Joint Tenancy with Rights of Survivorship upon an order of dissolution, annulment, or separate maintenance under Code Section 598.21.

A motion was made, seconded and approved by unanimous vote to include the Real Estate and Title Law Section’s legislative proposals as part of the ISBA Affirmative Legislative Agenda.

Commercial and Bankruptcy Law Section

Kristina Stanger appeared before the board to discuss the Commercial and Bankruptcy Law Section's recommendation to amend Code Section 642.14 to make it constitutional.

The federal decision in New v. Gemini, found the statutory provision in Section 642.14 unconstitutional because it lacks a notice of garnishment, a notice of exemptions and a notice that a hearing is available for exemptions.

The ISBA Commercial and Bankruptcy Section recommends a two-stage approach to amend Section 642.14. Stage one (near term) would be to revise the section to give front end notice. Stage two (long term) would be to revise Sections 642.12, 642.14, 642.15 and possibly 626.50 to increase consistency among all execution/remedies, streamline processes and eliminate redundancies.

A motion was made, seconded and approved by unanimous vote to include the Commercial and Bankruptcy Law Section's legislative proposals as part of the ISBA Affirmative Legislative Agenda.

Informational Reports

Discussion with Chief Justice Mark Cady

Chief Justice Mark Cady re-iterated his commitment to making Iowa's courts number one in the country. He also listed the following among accomplishments for 2013:

- establishment of business courts,
- expansion of specialty courts
- all court offices open on a full-time basis
- renewed mission to take Iowa's court system to the heights needed to deliver justice to all citizens

He also told the governors that the judicial branch has submitted a budget for the coming fiscal year and the court will continue its practice, started two years ago, of holding oral arguments around the state.

Chief Justice Cady then introduced Justice Edward Mansfield to discuss the court's proposed amendments to the court rules regarding discovery and lower value civil cases.

Eighth Circuit Conference

Federal District Senior Judge Robert Pratt outlined for the governors details of the Eighth Circuit Conference to be held at the Omaha, Neb., Hilton and Convention Center on Aug. 6-8. Tracks for the conference and many of the speakers have been confirmed, he said. There will be tracks on Bankruptcy, Criminal Law, General Civil Law and General Law, he said.

Speakers scheduled include U.S. Supreme Court Justice Samuel Alito, Harvard Law Professor Lawrence Lessig, American College of Trial Lawyers Past President Gregory Joseph and U.S. District Chief Judge for the District of Nebraska Joseph Bataillon.

The conference saw its largest attendance in Des Moines in 1995, Judge Pratt told the governors. He asked anyone who had ideas for the conference that would appeal to Iowans, especially for a noon luncheon speaker, to contact him.

Dean Agrawal, University of Iowa Law School

Gail Agrawal, dean of the University of Iowa College of Law, told the governors that U of I has adopted and across-the-board tuition cut. She also said that the simulcast arrangement U of I has with The Ohio State University Moritz

College of Law is working well. U of I will be on the receiving end of the teaching process with a course on election law for the spring semester. The arrangement shows great promise for expanding our legal education.

Dean Agrawal also told the governors that the university's 3+3 program is catching on with undergraduate schools. The program allows students to complete their fourth year of undergraduate education at the U of I College of Law shortening the traditional four years of undergraduate education plus three years of law school by a year and is open to all schools in Iowa, she said.

Employment numbers for law school graduates and soon-to-be graduates are good with over 80 percent of the class of 2013 employed. Nearly 40 percent of 3Ls had accepted jobs by the end of November.

Lastly, she congratulated Associate Dean Linda McGuire for being honored by the Association of American Law Schools for the student lawyer program she supervises.

Dean Vestal, Drake Law School

Allan Vestal, dean of the Drake University Law School, told the governors that Drake has accepted schools from outside the state for its 3+3 program. The goal is to lower student debt.

He also praised Drake's Moot Court teams. Two teams made it to the regional competition. One team made it to the semifinals, he said.

YLD President's Report

YLD President Ian Russell told the governors that young lawyers want to be involved in outreach activities. He cited several examples where the YLD hosted activities with judges, and with law students at the state's two law schools. The YLD will continue its outreach efforts, he said.

Legislative Update

Jim Carney addressed the board and informed them the 2014 legislative session is expected to be short. He cited as reasons that 2014 is an election year and lawmakers are anxious to get home so they can campaign, and lawmakers passed a number of significant pieces of legislation last year. The timetable calls for the session to end on April 22.

The budget situation is probably about the best it has been in history, with the legislature having about $1.3 billion in reserve funds.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 3:10 p.m.

Report of the Blue Ribbon Committee on Legal Education and Licensure

December 2013

The Blue Ribbon Committee on Legal Education and Licensure (the “Committee”) was established by the Administrative Committee of the Iowa State Bar Association on August 2, 2013. The charge of the Committee is to “to review legal education and licensure in Iowa.”

By letter dated August 20, 2013, the President of the Iowa State Bar Association, Guy R. Cook, clarified that the primary mission of the Committee:

is to review the current manner in which lawyers are licensed in Iowa and educated for admission. The specific focus will be on the nature of the Iowa Bar Exam and the creation of the Iowa Basic Skills Course. The charge of the committee will be to review the current mechanism for licensure and basic skills test to determine if any improvements or changes should be made or if a major overhaul of the process is in order.

David L. Brown of Des Moines agreed to chair the Committee. Fifteen additional members agreed to serve on the Committee.¹ The Committee included members of the Iowa bench and bar, individuals who have served in various capacities in the current licensure system, and the deans of both Iowa law schools.

The Committee met on three occasions, October 14, 2013, November 11, 2013, and December 5, 2013. Consistent with the President’s direction, the Committee received information on the manner in which prospective lawyers are educated for admission to the Iowa bar, and the current manner in which lawyers are licensed in Iowa. The Committee focused on the nature of the Iowa Bar Exam and the creation of the Iowa Basic Skills Course. It reviewed the current mechanism for licensure and basic skills test to determine if any improvements or changes should be made or if a major overhaul of the process is in order.

On the basis of its review and discussion, the Committee voted unanimously to make four recommendations within the scope of its charge.² Those recommendations are summarized in the following section and then developed in the subsequent sections of this Committee report.

¹ In addition to David L. Brown, who served as chair, the Committee members were: Gail B. Agrawal of Iowa City, Marsha A. Bergan of Iowa City, Scott D. Brown of Mason City, Catherine Marie Chargo of Windsor Heights, David Ewert of Des Moines, Joseph M. Feller of Sibley, Joseph L. Fitzgibbons of Estherville, David R. Mason of Cedar Falls, Ian J. Russell of Davenport, Timothy S. Semelroth of Cedar Rapids, Sharon Soorholtz Greer of Marshalltown, Mary E. Tabor of Des Moines, and Allan W. Vestal of Des Moines. Justice Thomas D. Waterman of the Iowa Supreme Court served as an ex-officio member of the Committee.

² Committee member David Ewert abstained, citing his position as Assistant Director for Admissions within the Office of Professional Regulation.

1. Summary of Committee Recommendations.

a. Recommendation 1: Create an Alternative for Admission Absent Examination for Qualified Graduates of Iowa Law Schools.

The Committee finds that significant improvements are possible in the current mechanism for licensure.

The Committee would leave unchanged the examination of moral character and fitness through the individual review of the Iowa board of law examiners under rule 31.9, and the related requirement that applicants pass the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination under rule 31.3(2).

The Committee would, for the graduates of Iowa's two law schools, substitute a series of requirements relating to their law school studies for the Iowa bar examination under rule 31.3(1). The Committee notes that this test of substantive knowledge excludes very few graduates of Iowa's two law schools. For the most recent five-year period only 1%, were ultimately treated differently under the existing and proposed rules. But by delaying their entry into practice, the current procedure imposes a significant financial penalty on a much larger number of these graduates: upwards of 27% to 30% of the typical student's law school student loan balance at the two Iowa law schools.

The Committee concludes that the public aspects of licensure would be well maintained under a different system for confirming the substantive knowledge of the graduates of the two Iowa law schools, along the lines of the Wisconsin rule. The benefits of the proposed rule start with the reduction of the law school student debt of the new lawyers, but they extend further. The proposed rule promises benefits to Iowa's rural and traditionally underrepresented communities, by lowering student-debt barriers to new lawyers serving these communities. The rule would aid Iowa's bar and bench by making practice in Iowa more competitive for the graduates of our Iowa law schools and by assisting our bar and bench in becoming more diverse.

b. Recommendation 2: Extend the Comprehensive Character and Fitness Screening to Applicants Admitted Absent Examination.

The examination of moral character and fitness through the individual review of the Iowa board of law examiners is the primary protection for the public in the licensure process. The Committee feels strongly that candidates for admission absent examination should be subject to the moral character and fitness examination under rule 31.9.

c. Recommendation 3: Adopt the Uniform Bar Exam for Admission Upon Examination.

The creation of an alternative for admission absent examination would not remove the need for a procedure for admission upon examination for those who do not qualify under the new rule. An examination mechanism could also be used by some who qualify under the new rule but who nevertheless want maximum portability for licensure in other states. The availability of an alternative for admission absent examination would permit the examination to be refocused on portability, and the Committee recommends adoption of the Uniform Bar Examination.

d. Recommendation 4: Revise the Iowa Basic Skills Course.

With the creation of an alternative for admission absent examination including a required 2-credit course in Iowa legal practice and procedure, the Iowa Basic Skills Course could be changed. The Committee recommends that alternatives to the Iowa Basic Skills Course be investigated.

2. Recommendation 1: Create an Alternative for Admission Absent Examination for Qualified Graduates of Iowa Law Schools.

The Committee reviewed the current mechanism for licensure to determine if any improvements could be made, and finds that significant improvements are possible.

The Committee notes that the current process for licensure of lawyers includes two components: the examination of substantive knowledge through the bar examinations under rule 31.3, and the examination of moral character and fitness through the individual review of the Iowa board of law examiners under rule 31.9. The examination of substantive knowledge, in turn, has two components. The first is the Iowa bar examination under rule 31.3(1). The second is the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination under rule 31.3(2).

As to the examination of substantive knowledge through the Iowa bar examination under rule 31.3(1), the Committee notes that this test of substantive knowledge excludes very few graduates of Iowa's two law schools. For the most recent five-year period only 21, or 2%, were ultimately excluded.³ The Committee reviewed the academic programs of the two Iowa law schools and concludes, consistent with the reliably high pass rates for their graduates, that our two Iowa law schools are providing their students with a solid legal education.

³ For the five-year period from 2008 to 2013 Drake Law School and the University of Iowa College of Law combined to have 996 graduates take the Iowa bar exam for the first time. Of these first-time takers, 68 (6.8%) did not pass their initial test. Of that group of 68, 42 (62%) subsequently passed either the Iowa bar exam (38) or the bar exam in another jurisdiction (4). Of the remaining 26, 5 took the July, 2013 bar exam and thus have not had a chance to retake. The breakdown for the individual schools is as follows: For the five-year period from 2008 to 2013, 588 Drake Law School graduates took the Iowa bar exam for the first time. Of these first-time takers, 44 (7.5%) did not pass their initial test. Of that group of 44, 30 (68%) subsequently passed either the Iowa bar exam (27) or the bar exam in another jurisdiction (3). Of the remaining 14, 4 took the July, 2013 bar exam and thus have not had a chance to retake. For the same period, 408 University of Iowa College of Law graduates took the Iowa bar exam for the first time. Of these first-time takers, 24 (5.9%) did not pass their initial test. Of that group of 24, 12 (50%) subsequently passed either the Iowa bar exam (11) or the bar exam in another jurisdiction (1). Of the remaining 12, 1 took the July, 2013 bar exam and thus did not have a chance to retake.

While the Iowa bar examination screens out very few graduates of Iowa's law schools, it imposes a significant financial penalty on a much larger number of these graduates. The Committee notes that the current mechanism for licensure results in a lengthy amount of time between the date of law school graduation and the date of admission to the bar upon passage of the bar examination. This year, for example, students at the two Iowa law schools graduated in mid-May; those who took and passed the July bar examination were sworn in on September 30. The four and one half month delay between graduation and bar admission represents a significant cost for these students.⁴ For a student with average amounts of law school student loans, the cost of such delay is around $29,000 per applicant, between 27% and 30% of the typical student's law school student loan balance at the two Iowa law schools.⁵

Given the very small number of individuals ultimately excluded by the current Iowa bar examination, and the significant delay penalty imposed on applicants who are admitted, the Committee finds that the cost of the present system is simply not justified.⁶ The Committee concludes that the public aspects of licensure would be well maintained under a different system for confirming the substantive knowledge of the graduates of the two Iowa law schools.

The Committee concludes that a significant improvement in the current mechanism for licensure could be made by creating an alternative for admission absent examination for qualified graduates of the two Iowa law schools along the lines of the Wisconsin rule.

The benefits of the proposed rule for admission absent examination for qualified graduates of the two Iowa law schools start with the reduction of the law school student debt of the new lawyers, but they extend further. The proposed rule promises benefits to Iowa's rural and traditionally underrepresented communities, and to our bench and bar.

A clear impediment to new lawyers going to Iowa's rural communities is the levels of law school debt among new graduates. By allowing the new graduates of our two Iowa law schools to reduce the amounts of their student debt by eliminating the four and one half month delay between graduation and bar admission we will remove a barrier to them locating in our rural communities. The same is true as to the opportunities for such new ⁴ If one assumes a student who enters a position that requires bar admission and pays an annual salary of $57,000 plus benefits at 30%, the delay of 135 days – the difference between the current Iowa procedure and the Wisconsin rule – is approximately $27,400. Adding bar examination and review costs incurred under the existing rule but saved under the Wisconsin rule brings the difference to about $29,000. This assumes that any earnings from temporary, non-practice employment during the period of delay are offset by extra costs imposed.

⁶ Using the $29,000 projection for the delay cost per student and the 996 first time takers from the two Iowa law schools over the five-year period (minus the 68 students who initially did not pass) yields a systemic loss of $26,912,000 ($29,000 * 928). Thus, each of the excluded 10 students cost the group of initially successful applicants $2,691,200.

lawyers to serve other historically underrepresented communities and to enter into public service practice.

The proposed rule for admission absent examination will also benefit the bar and bench by making practice in Iowa more competitive for the graduates of our Iowa law schools. To the extent this helps the Iowa bar and bench become more diverse, by assisting our law schools in attracting and our state in retaining diverse individuals, it is a particularly beneficial outcome.

Finally, the proposed rule comes with the assurance that graduates of our law schools will have an exposure to Iowa practice and procedure. With recent shifts, the Iowa bar examination no longer tests over Iowa law. Without offering an opinion on this shift, the Committee notes that under proposed rule 31.20(3)d, applicants would be required to have successfully completed a 2 semester hour course in Iowa practice and procedure. A related feature of the existing rule – that the selection of the substantive areas tested on the bar examination encourages students to study a core curriculum – continues under the proposed rule through the 60 credit hour list of courses under 31.20(3)b., the 30 credit hour list of courses under 31.20(3)c, and the 2 credit hour course in Iowa practice and procedure required under 31.20(3)d.

As to the examination of knowledge of professional responsibility through the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination under rule 31.3(2), the Committee believes that the MPRE is a valuable adjunct to the investigation of applicants' moral character and fitness. It notes that because the MPRE is typically taken prior to graduation and does not present the same timing difficulties as the Iowa bar examination. The Committee strongly recommends that the MPRE be required for all applicants for admission under both rules 31.3 and 31.20.

To implement a Wisconsin-style diploma privilege, the Committee proposes that a new provision be added to Iowa Rules of Court Chapter 31, Admission to the Bar. In the draft set forth in Appendix A the new provision is designated rule 31.20 using the first of the reserved sections of existing rule 31. In addition, a number of technical amendments within Chapter 31 are necessary to reflect the addition of rule 31.20. The organization and language track existing rule 31.3 and combine elements of the Wisconsin rule, SCR Chapter 40.

In some important respects the procedure for admission absent examination is the same as the existing procedure for admission on examination. Both provide for registration by law students. Both require letters of good moral character. Both provide for character and fitness reviews by the board. Both require the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination.

In lieu of the required examinations under the existing procedure,⁷ the procedure for admission absent examination allows graduates of the two Iowa law schools⁸ to be admitted

if they have earned at least 84 semester credits,⁹ 60 semester credits of which are in a specified list of courses,¹⁰ 30 semester credits of which are in a second specified list of courses (semester credits can be applied to satisfy multiple requirements),¹¹ and 2 credits of which are in a course in Iowa legal practice and procedure.¹² The rule provides that the law schools shall certify the courses with which their applicants have satisfied these four requirements.¹³

Over the most recent five-year period the proposed rule would have resulted in a different outcome than the current rule in only 10 cases, a shift of 1% in outcomes,¹⁴ while providing a very substantial benefit to a group of almost a thousand newly admitted lawyers in terms of a significant reduction in the levels of law school student loans, with a resulting benefit to Iowa's rural and other historically underrepresented communities. The Committee believes this is a worthy policy advance.

3. Recommendation 2: Extend the Comprehensive Character and Fitness Screening to Applicants Admitted Absent Examination.

The current process for licensure of lawyers includes an examination of moral character and fitness through the individual review of the Iowa board of law examiners under rule 31.9. This is the primary protection for the public in the licensure process. It works well. The Committee gave no consideration to exempting candidates for admission absent examination from the moral character and fitness examination under rule 31.9.

⁸ Appendix A, Rule 31.20(3) (proposed). The rule applies to “[a]n applicant who has been awarded a juris doctor or comparable first professional degree in law from a law school located primarily in this state that is fully, not provisionally, approved by the American Bar Association . . .”

⁹ Appendix A, Rule 31.20(3)a. (proposed).

¹⁰ Appendix A, Rule 31.20(3)b. (proposed). The courses in the 60-credit list are: “those subjects tested on the Uniform Bar Examination (UBE), which include business associations, conflict of laws, constitutional law, contracts, criminal law and procedure, evidence, family law, federal civil procedure, real property, torts, trusts and estates, and Uniform Commercial Code, and the additional subjects areas of professional responsibility and ethics, administrative law, creditor's rights, health law, insurance, intellectual property, legislation and legislative process, labor and employment law, practice and procedure (including Iowa and appellate practice and procedure), public utilities, taxation, trade regulation, and civil procedure, including in each case advanced courses in the listed subject areas.”

¹¹ Appendix A, Rule 31.20(3)c. (proposed). The courses in the 30-credit list are: “those subjects tested on the Multistate Bar Examination (MBE) which includes constitutional law, contracts, criminal law and procedure, ethics and professional responsibility, evidence, real property, torts, and the additional subjects of legal writing and legal research, civil procedure, and Iowa Practice and Procedure.”

¹² Appendix A, Rule 31.20(3)d. (proposed).

¹³ Appendix A, Rule 31.20(3)f. (proposed).

¹⁴ As explained in footnote 3, only 21 first-time takers from Drake and Iowa were ultimately unsuccessful in passing the bar exam. Of these, 11 would not have been admitted under the proposed rule 31.20 because they would not have satisfied the 60-credit requirement under 31.20(3)b or the 30-credit requirement under 31.20(3)c (the analysis does not include the 2-credit Iowa practice and procedure course requirement under 31.20(3)d as the course was not available at either school). The breakdown for the individual schools is as follows: Drake had 10 graduates who were ultimately not successful, 8 of whom would have qualified under the proposed rule; Iowa had 11 graduates who were ultimately not successful, 2 of whom would have qualified under the proposed rule.

The language proposed in Appendix A includes both modifications of the existing rules extending the coverage of the character and fitness process to applicants for admission absent examination under rule 31.20,¹⁵ and language in the rule 31.20 making it clear that applicants for admission absent examination are subject to the full character and fitness process.¹⁶ Both the modification of the existing rule¹⁷ and the proposed rule 31.20¹⁸ include the requirement that candidates for admission absent examination to successfully take the MPRE.

4. Recommendation 3: Adopt the Uniform Bar Exam for Admission Upon Examination.

The creation of an alternative for admission absent examination for qualified graduates of Iowa law schools would not remove the need for a procedure for admission upon examination. An examination mechanism would still be required for candidates already licensed in other jurisdictions where either the jurisdiction does not have reciprocity or the candidate does not qualify for reciprocal admission, candidates educated at non-Iowa law schools, and candidates educated at Iowa law schools who for any reason do not qualify for admission absent examination under rule 31.20. The Committee also believes an examination mechanism should still be available for candidates educated at Iowa law schools who qualify for admission absent examination, but who nevertheless want maximum portability for licensure in other states.

If the admission absent examination alternative does not remove the need for an examination mechanism, it may nevertheless allow the examination to be refocused. With the removal of those admitted under rule 31.20 from the group of test takers, the examination could be refocused on portability. The question would become whether, consistent with the public aspects of licensure, there is a test vehicle which would better facilitate portability than the current mix of the Multistate Essay Examination (the “MEE”), the Multistate Bar Examination (the “MBE”), and the Multistate Performance Test (the “MPT”).

The Committee notes that the National Conference of Bar Examiners has developed the Uniform Bar Examination (“UBE”). The UBE consists of the MEE, MBE, and MPT already adopted by Iowa. According to the Conference, the UBE “is uniformly administered, graded, and scored by user jurisdictions and results in a portable score.”¹⁹

The Committee recommends that with adoption of the rule for admission absent examination for qualified graduates of Iowa law schools, Iowa also adopt the UBE.

5. Recommendation 4: Revise the Iowa Basic Skills Course.

¹⁵ Appendix A. Rule 31.9(2) (proposed).

¹⁶ Appendix A. Rule 31.20 (proposed).

¹⁷ Appendix A. Rule 31.3(2) (proposed).

¹⁸ Appendix A. Rule 31.20(2) (proposed).

¹⁹ <http://www.ncbex.org/about-ncbe-exams/ube/> .

With the creation of an alternative for admission absent examination for qualified graduates of Iowa law schools, the focus of the Iowa Basic Skills Course could also be changed.

Rule 31.20 requires candidates for admission absent examination to successfully complete a 2-credit course in Iowa legal practice and procedure.²⁰ This removes the rationale for requiring such individuals to take the Iowa Basic Skills Course.

The Iowa Basic Skills Course would still be required for candidates already licensed in other jurisdictions where either the jurisdiction does not have reciprocity or the candidate does not qualify for reciprocal admission, candidates educated at non-Iowa law schools, and candidates educated at Iowa law schools who for any reason do not qualify for admission absent examination under rule 31.20. Recognizing the interests and needs of these groups, the Committee recommends that alternatives to the Iowa Basic Skills Course be investigated, including a programming track at the annual Bridge the Gap Seminar presented by the Young Lawyers Division of the Iowa State Bar Association, and on-line courses offered by the Iowa law schools.

6. Conclusion.

What the Committee is proposing – allowing the graduates of Iowa’s two law schools to substitute a series of requirements relating to their law school studies for the Iowa bar examination – is in one respect not a substantial change. The analysis indicates a difference in outcomes of less than 1% over the period of the past five years had the proposed rule been in effect. But in another important respect the change would be substantial. By allowing a significant reduction in law school student debt the new rule would have directly benefitted almost a thousand young lawyers over the same five year period. The change would have benefitted the state by lowering barriers to rural practice, to service in other historically underserved communities, and to public service. It would have made Iowa practice a more attractive option and would have assisted in the effort to create a more diverse bar and bench.

The Committee’s proposal is innovative, but it is not unprecedented. The neighboring state of Wisconsin has had what is being proposed for Iowa for generations, and their experience has been very positive. The relevant similarities between Wisconsin and Iowa strongly suggest that their experience could be translated to our state.

What the Committee is proposing would not be appropriate in every jurisdiction. It requires law schools with a history of educating students who pass the bar exam in consistently high numbers, law schools which have a close working relationship with the bench and bar. It requires a bar and bench deeply involved in the education and mentoring of new lawyers and concerned about easing impediments to serving historically underserved communities. It requires a Supreme Court that is willing to be innovative and progressive. What the Committee proposes would not work everywhere, but we believe it would be good for Iowa.

CHAPTER 31 ADMISSION TO THE BAR

[deletions in ~~strikeout~~, additions in red and underlined]

Rule 31.1 Board of law examiners. [no modifications]

Rule 31.2 Registration by law students.

31.2(1) Every person intending to apply for admission to the bar of this state by examination under rule 31.3 or absent examination under rule 31.20 shall, by November 1 of the year in which the person commences the study of law in an accredited law school, register with the Iowa board of law examiners on forms furnished by the board and pay the required fee of $40. The board may designate data submitted as a confidential record. Any confidential data shall be segregated by the board and the assistant director from the portion of the registration filed as a public record.

31.2(2) If any person shall fail to so register, the board may, if it finds that a strict enforcement of this rule would work a hardship and that sufficient excuse exists for failing to comply with rule 31.2(1), waive the requirements of this rule as to the date of filing. Refusal of the board to waive such requirement shall be subject to supreme court review. If the registration is not on file by the November 1 registration deadline set forth in rule 31.2(1), but is on file by December 1 immediately preceding the registrant's July examination or July 1 immediately preceding the registrant's February examination, the registration fee will be $150. If the registration is not timely filed, but is on file by April 1 immediately preceding the registrant's July examination or November 1 immediately preceding the registrant's February examination, the registration fee will be $250. If the registration is not timely filed in the case of an applicant under rule 31.20, but is on file eight months prior to the applicant's graduation from law school, the registration fee will be $150; if such registration is on file four months prior to the applicant's graduation, the fee will be $250. This fee is not refundable and shall be in addition to the fee required under rule 31.6. The failure to file the registration by the November 1 deadline of rule 31.2(1) may result in delays in conducting the board's character and fitness investigation. The board will not expedite its character and fitness investigation because the registration form is not timely filed. The board may conclude the registrant should not be permitted to take the bar examination until the investigation is completed. The registrant will not be eligible for admission to the bar until the character and fitness process is completed.

31.2(3) Registration as a law student under this rule is not deemed an application for permission to take the bar examination or an application for admission under rule 31.20.

31.2(4) The registration shall be accompanied by letters prepared by three persons not related to applicant by consanguinity or affinity attesting to the registrant's good moral character. The letters must be signed and shall include contact information for the reference provider. The letters shall state how the reference knows the registrant, how long the reference has known the registrant, and the basis for concluding the registrant possesses good moral character.

31.2(5) The board shall review each registration and may require the personal presence of any registrant at such time and place as the board may prescribe for interview and examination concerning the registrant's character and fitness. The board may at any time find it advisable to make further inquiry into the character, fitness, and general qualifications of the registrant, and with regard to each registration, the board shall have all of the powers given it in respect to inquiry and investigation of candidates for admission to the bar.
